

Rage!

Everyone is fucking angry!!!

Anger, like love, is a powerful and highly irrational emotion, triggered subtly or overtly in equal measure. It can sneak up on you after a prolonged, seemingly benign needling or explode as a result of a perceived immediate outrage. It is the end product of actual, imagined or pulled-out-of-someone's-ass inflammatory invention, and is why we will eventually annihilate one another...if Mother Nature doesn't get us first. Societal leaders, generals, shoguns, field marshals, chancellors, prime ministers, popes and presidents have poked and prodded the pent up rage of those crowded around their bully pulpits to stir the worst, predictably reactive fury of the human psyche and fanned the flames of history's most heinous atrocities. Humans kinda suck...and that makes me soooooooooo angry!
